The Spring Tea Party is when the exposition-style Alishan Four Seasons Tea Tour exhibition takes place. Creative tea culture, local ecology, and cultivated plants are highlighted, in addition to seasonal flowers and decorated tea ceremony spaces to showcase the tea growing areas of Greater Alishan on the Niupuzi Love Prairie.

At the "Party" tea masters from Taiwan and abroad exhibit their skills in presenting the tea ceremony, while carrying out domestic and international exchanges in tea art and culture. Moreover, diverse local tea products are promoted including experiential tea tours, high-mountain tea gift boxes, tea delicacies, blended tea beverages, tea-themed cultural and creative products, clothing and accessories. Visitors enjoy the esthetics of tea culture combined with nature, seasonal Alishan teas, and in-depth tea tours that reveal the elegance and diversity of Alishan's tea culture.

Tea ceremony in a forest

Summer Tea Party activities take place amid Alishan's unique landscapes, which include the sea of clouds, hiking trails, and ancient forests. As tea is served by local guides, enjoy a dialogue with nature and taste dishes made with seasonal ingredients, while learning how to make tea snacks suited for summer from local experts.

Summer tea tours combine the need to stay cool with unique local experiences. For example, you can sample tea in a forest of Taiwanese incense cedar with advance reservation. You can also listen as tea tour guides introduce the culture and ecology of Fenqihu and admire artworks made with the local area's square bamboo, as you enjoy a tea tour that is more than just tasting tea. Along the Dinghu Trail, participate in a traditional tea ceremony as a guide serves quality Alishan high-mountain tea. Feel yourself relax as you participate in a dialogue with nature and experience its healing effects. Then, make your own jelly fig gelatin dessert, known as "aiyu" in Mandarin Chinese. Explore traditional tea culture on a tea tour that involves all five senses.

During the Fall Tea Party, sample tea amid Alishan's mountains, next to a waterfall, and along a riverbank. From the highest point, enjoy 360-degree views of tea plantations shrouded in low-lying cloud and mist, creating a natural wonderland. Amid this gorgeous scenery, taste high-mountain tea and relax. Sit by a river, close to a waterfall, as a tea expert carefully presents the traditional tea ceremony. In this natural setting filled with the aromas of tea, feel your worries fading away. The tea ceremony becomes part of the landscape, as you experience the cooling effects of a waterfall and the gentle breezes of a bamboo forest. Listen to the sounds of rushing water and breathe in fresh air, as you taste Alishan's high-mountain teas.

Fall tea tours combine natural landscapes and innovative experiential activities. In Ruifeng learn how tea leaves are picked and processed. Don a tea farmer's conical hat as you participate in a leaf picking competition on a tea plantation. In Taixing, sip tea on a tea plantation, along a riverbank, or near a waterfall. Savor fragrant and subtly sweet tea produced by roasting leaves in a bamboo tube. Every year, around the Mid-Autumn Festival, flocks of cattle egrets migrate southward, passing through Taixing and creating an impressive sight. Sip tea in a tea plantation nestled in a beautiful mountain gorge surrounded by these graceful birds.

In the winter, there are gorgeous views of mountains draped in low-lying clouds and mist, which appear to be straight out of a landscape painting. In such beautiful settings, winter takes on a new and refined meaning. Traditional residences in Alishan preserve both history and elegance. In winter, in front of an old residence, enjoy the nostalgia and the warmth of tea, as you admire every detail of the scenery. Taste the teas of Alishan, which possess the spirit of the mountains and the essence of nature. Partake in a dialogue between tea and culture, view the green hues of mountain forests, and immerse yourself in the tranquility of a mountain town.

Winter tea tours combine local culture and arts. Slow down and relax as you explore historic lanes and landscape art. Feel the calm as you escape into the beauty of tea plantations nestled among mountains and the scenery of a mountain town. Visit Longyanlin where Alishan tea originated. With advance reservation, participate in a tea tasting or tea processing experience. In Taiping, where ceramic art has developed in recent years, paint your own teacup as a souvenir. In Taihe, learn blown cobalt-blue glaze techniques and in Shizhuo elevate your sense of esthetics by learning about plants used to decorate spaces for holding the traditional tea ceremony.
